When an assassin from this clan bursts into your kingdom and threatens the life of the Princess, it is up to you to defend the Kingdom of Time. Time is a time management game with a story. It is similar to Monument Valley, also from the same developer, Ustwo. The gameplay is a mashup of several familiar casual game mechanics and not a thousand games of matching shapes. Gameplay is fun and simple, easy to learn, and hard to master. --- Play Time - Play Time is a game to help you improve your time management skills, by playing with a set of cards. You need to match cards to finish your current game and move on to the next one. In the meantime, the timer is counting down the time left. Note: You'll hear a beep when you need to focus on a specific task. --- If you enjoyed the gameplay of Play Time, you'll appreciate how seamless the game flow is. Your progress in one game is not connected to the next one. Your cards will be reused in all the games you play. Unlike a puzzle game where you might be stuck, in Play Time you can progress. Begins to Release April 24th, 2016, 11:02 AM LONDON, ENGLAND—Eurogamer is testing out a brand new Nightlife Pack that is guaranteed to give players 50,000 experience points (xp) every 4 hours. “We’re a bit of an odd bunch here at Tripwire Interactive - the majority of us love big, alpha-n-omega MMOs,” said studio head John Gibson. “But our CEO here likes pissing around.” “I don’t like going to dodgy nightclubs,” said Gibson. “I’d spend the whole time trying to talk to women and failing. It’s why I got into this business instead.” “The social aspect is what sets this pack apart,” he said, “though it does involve large quantities of beer. There’ll be blood for 4 hours, though.” The tips are: *Note: This content has recently been updated. All skill levels have been updated and set to use the current item level. To unlock tier 6, you must begin their mission wave 5, which is highest difficulty as of 6/4/16 UPDATE: The Nightlife content has been updated to reflect the highest level so far. 70s, 75s and 80s are currently in, and a bar level has been added with two exotic choices. Have fun! Here's the progress so far! What if I enjoy RPGs as much as shooter? There are plenty of FPS titles out there that don't have any RPG components. They are by their nature stripped down/reusable character models/shooting mechanics. And honestly, sometimes they are better than the more purely indie-party based titles. I've enjoyed several FPS games that I've bought purely for the shooting mechanics, like the .45 Pistol in Call Of Duty: Black Ops. The amount of damage was superb, the spread is good for long range, the sight is... well, there's not much of it, but the acoustics and recoil were semi-manageable. There was a flow to the whole experience and a feeling of achievement and usefulness. But it was purely a shooter. And then the system was drip-fed a bit of character building too. A special/random trait was bestowed and a weapon

Another huge update that addresses some of the concerns I had about the start of the story mode. Please accept my apologies for all the problems and inconveniences that this game has caused you.
