- Adjusted the animation of the in-game user interface in the supporter zone and world map

Updated translation.

This update was made possible by the generous contribution from our publisher Mad Dog Soud. For that, please pay back to him by buying ONLINE PASS that will have a discount when purchasing the game.

We are excited to bring you the final update in our first action RPG that takes place in the Lands Between. For almost a year, we worked as hard as we could in order to deliver a quality game that all of you have had an unforgettable experience with. We have worked to make the new content and improve the existing contents in the game.

The game is still in Early Access, so there are many things that may need improvement. However, we can determine that those items that are covered by proper testing and feedback in late access phases will be added to the last release version of the game. We prepared the detailed content here in this update in order to avoid the cuts.

The game now has a bit sharper graphics and the length of time to progress the story has increased. But to put it simply, your experience with other people will become tenser. We sincerely ask everyone to give us honest opinions on whether the game is near its completion or is still lacking something.

We hope you will enjoy the updated content we created for the final release and our meticulous work. Thank you very much.

NEW TOOL: Sneak

Sneak allows you to take an enemy by surprise.

Let n be a positive integer, Prove that $n^{\{1/n\}}$ is a decreasing function. My try: $f'(t)=\frac{1}{nt}$
 $f'(-\frac{1}{n})=\frac{1}{-n\cdot(-\frac{1}{n})}=-\frac{1}{n^2}$ At the point

$t = -\frac{1}{n}$ value of f' is $-\frac{1}{n^2}$. The value of f' is the maximum value of f' in the interval $[-\frac{1}{n}, 0]$. So value of f' at $t = -\frac{1}{n}$ is the answer. Is this correct or can anyone explain me in another way? A: Note that $\lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} \frac{1}{n^{1/n}} = 0$ and $\lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} \frac{1}{n^{1/n}} = -\infty$. Therefore, it is not the case that

$\lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} \left(\frac{1}{n^{1/n}} \right)' = 0$. In fact, it is false that

How to remove the scroll bar from JSON response? The problem is that when I get the JSON response from the server, it shows a scrollbar from the beginning of the text.

Here is the code: `function getData(id) { $.ajax({ type: "get", url: ""+id+"/"+"texts.txt", success: function (response) bff6bb2d33`
