The story evolves through the choices you make. If you decide to become a hero, you can go on many different journeys. Although the game is only about 45 minutes long, you will end up spending more than 100 hours on your journey to consciousness. Characters The player(That's you) Empath: A first-year student at the school you attend. A girl with big eyes. Able: A second-year student. He's a boy. His appearance is a mess. He gets lost in everything. Zoonie: The headmaster's daughter. She makes a decision and leads the way. The player(That's you) is the main character in this visual novel. You are a very important character, since the choices you make will determine how your consciousness grows. You can change your mind and try a new strategy at any time. Expectations of the story After downloading this game, you will not be able to progress or explore the world of the story. There is only one ending for each character. However, you will be able to explore an expansive and beautiful world. If you want to change something about the story, you will have to ask another character for advice. The ending is determined when you speak to the story's character and the first question you ask is, "What do you want to become on your journey?" The character will give you the answer you want. You might see the ending that only you were able to reach. Prominent Features of Our Journey When Our Journey Ends - A Visual Novel: There are 5 endings the player can reach in this game. Explore a visually stunning universe. Experience dynamic narrative and branching dialogue trees. Play with different styles. Online Notification System The game features a notification system that can easily be used. Through this system, you can know when certain endings are available. The system is based on "spotlight" cookies. You can discover the features of this game through the live stream. When you are logged in, you can see the notification icon on the top right, like this By pressing the I button, you can see what the notification is about When you come to the scene where you can get notified, you will have to pause the game before pressing the I button. The player remembers the spotlight information for the scene. Therefore, it

In "The Lord of the Rings: Adventure Card Game Soundtrack," a single playable game of The Lord of the Rings: Adventure Card Game is composed of three phases: The Deck Building Phase, The Game Play Phase, and The Winner Phase. The Deck Building Phase is where players build their deck, which is comprised of up to 1060 cards, by choosing three cards from one of four different decks: The Store Deck, The Deck Building Deck, The Rule Deck, and The Historic Deck. The Game Play Phase is where players take turns by choosing up to three cards and placing them face-up on the Tableau Board that is used to represent the tabletop environment in The Lord of the Rings: Adventure Card Game. To do this, players must use the Actions that are printed on the top left side of each card. Each player is given sixty Seconds to take their turns, but there is a special Round (Round One), which lasts five minutes, during which all players go at the same speed. If a player wishes to place the same card on the tableau board multiple times in one turn, they must let go of the card, and the new card will be placed face up in its place. Once all players have used up their sixty Seconds, the next player takes their turns, and the process continues until all players have spent their turns. When a player fails to pay attention to what they are doing or has spent their Turn too quickly without spending their actions, or if a player accidentally cannot use a card, such as if they mistakenly choose a card that can't be played, the offending player is placed in their opponents' "Attention" column. If a player becomes inattentive, their opponent can use a card to "Arrest" the inattentive player, forcing them to wait for the next phase, where a "Judge" will arbitrate on the situation. Once all affected players have been put in their attention columns, the judge can remove players from the game and declare a winner. If a player uses more than their allotted actions on a turn, they can "Steal" an action from another player to use on their turn, or a player can "Borrow" an action from another player to use on their turn, in which case, the other player must consent to the "Borrowing" by placing the card they are borrowing from on the tableau board. Players may "Recycle" a card they have used, or have temporarily borrowed, before
