

Where To Buy Korres Products

Formulated, farmed and manufactured in Greece, KORRES skin care and body care products use unique skin care ingredients like yoghurt, white pine, native Greek botanicals and flora to transform skin of all types and skin concerns. Browse and shop KORRES skin care products today to nourish and protect your skin from head to toe with proven natural formulas. Choose from trusted body and face serums, moisturizers, cleansers, masks, oils and more. Interested in learning more about proper skin care for every season of life? Visit the LovelySkin Blog now for dermatologist-approved insight and tips! Today, KORRES products are expertly formulated with Greek flora, botanicals, and native natural compounds in their all-women-led laboratory. Each ingredient is grown on local farms and handpicked with care to preserve the integrity of the ingredient. The KORRES lab then tests each product meticulously, with over five hundred clinical trials conducted before the product is released for public use. Yes. A small group of botanists, scientists and engineers work to ensure KORRES body and face care products are formulated without two thousand unnecessary ingredients. These include parabens, microbeads, formaldehyde, mineral oil, phthalates, silicone, propylene glycol, GMOs and synthetic colors. Yes, KORRES skin care products are all proudly made without animal testing. The brand believes in the purity of ingredients and intentions and takes pride in safe, efficient products tested without the involvement of innocent animals. KORRES skin care products can be purchased through authorized retailers like LovelySkin. As an authorized retailer, we guarantee all our product offerings are sourced directly from their manufacturers. Unlike third parties, we can guarantee the products we sell are authentic, unexpired and have never been tampered with. For more product sourcing information, please contact our knowledgeable Customer Care Team. Featuring a targeted collection of nourishing products that are bursting with unique aromas, they offer a range for almost every skincare need. Shop the newly launched Korres Skincare here, and try their award winning Greek Yoghurt range. My obsession with Greek beauty started on a recent trip to Greece where Korres products were not just a mainstay in every hotel, but Greece's wineries, too. Santo Wines, one of the top wineries in Santorini, has been working with Korres for years, giving leftover grapes from the winemaking process to Korres to integrate into its Santorini Grape skincare collection. Though the Olive 3-In-1 Nourishing Oil is one of the few products in Korres' collection that I haven't tried, I'd be remiss not to mention this cult favorite with a note that I'm dying to get my hands on it. In fact, Korres has an entire line of products made with olive oil, but this is definitely the most popular. The brand sources local olive oil from Crete, and opts for a cold-pressing method which serves to keep the oil rich in antioxidants, vitamins, and essential fatty acids. As a result, you can use this oil on your face, body, or in your hair to deliver nutrients to wherever they're needed. Considering the mid-range price and the generous 100 mL size, I'd say it's worth a try. Executed in partnership with the New York City division of nonprofit organization Precious Plastics, the Recycle Lab will allow customers to bring plastic product empties from any brand to be reprocessed into new products, such as combs or tote bags, through an alternative plastic recycling system. The store will feature the largest collection of Korres products available at any of its locations to date, with the entire selection of Korres.com offerings available as well as some in-store exclusives. Created by Greek Pharmacist George Korres and Chemical engineer Lena Korres, 1996 saw the launch of beauty brand Korres. Born out of Athens' oldest homeopathic pharmacy, they founded a company based on a strong belief in the innate potency of natural ingredients, and the firm assurance that nature is an inspiration for scientific discovery. This mutual confidence and deep understanding of the power of plants means that KORRES has created products that not only work for our skin but inside our bodies. Every product has a precious extract isolated from powerful Greek flora, herbs and even food ingredients sustainably sourced from their cooperation of organic farmers at its core. Traveling to Greece for the past several years and now living in Athens, I discover new great Greek cosmetic or beauty products all the time. As in many European countries, you can find upscale brands of beauty products in pharmacies. Apivita also makes body lotions and some face anti-aging products. The other product I have loved from them has been the facial scrubs. I had been in Greece for so many months, my skin was suffering from all the sun exposure, my fault. I was looking for a scrub that would do more than just exfoliate. Apivita has a Bilberry brightening scrub and mask that is great. All the products are made in Greece with Greek products. Kear is available on their website, in pharmacies in Athens, Naxos and Thessaloniki and some soaps can be found in the AB supermarkets. Another great Greek beauty brand to take home as a souvenir on your next trip to Greece! Excellent tips , one of best article you have shared .Awesome post. Thanks for mentioning the cosmetic-and-beauty-productsand. I think Everyone must go once. I would love to share it with my friends so that they also get benefited from your knowledge. Established in 1996 following an earlier meeting of minds, and later marriage, between Lena (a qualified chemical engineer) and pharmacist Giorgos Korres - the brand has evolved to become a global force in natural skincare - fueled by best-selling products including its Wild Rose 24-hour Brightening Cream and Greek Yogurt Nourishing Gel Cream. It all started out of the oldest herbal apothecary of Greece back in the 80s; this is where Giorgos, a pharmacist, started familiarising himself with the power of natural ingredients as he prepared the more than 3,000 herbal remedies of the pharmacy. He then started thinking of ways these unique benefits could be translated into skincare solutions. We wanted to develop products that could address even the most demanding skin needs and at the same time are pleasing to use. And so, we became a pioneer in terms of primary research and innovation, presenting worldwide product breakthroughs and driving demand for natural beauty. We kicked off our journey at a time when concepts such as eco-cosmetics, clean beauty, sustainability were far from a trend. Our philosophy focused on safe, natural products consciously made for visible results; affordable for everyday use, with distinctive aesthetics that can make people happy. Just take a moment to think that we are using multiple beauty products for many decades during our lifetime. At the same time, our skin is our bigger organ and it absorbs those multiple products every day for so many years. It makes so much sense to feed our skin with natural, skin-friendly ingredients that have amazing skin benefits and do not disturb skin balance and skin critical functions. At Korres we are really lucky to be a Greek natural beauty brand because Greece is a paradise of plants. Despite its small size, it hosts more than 6,000 plants, 1,200 out of which are endemic, they cannot be found anywhere else in the world. When we first started, natural cosmetics meant using just oils, extracts, waxes, limiting options and results. Natural cosmetics smelled and felt good, but were not up to the anti-ageing challenge. As research and technology evolved, our Molecular and Formulation Labs focused on discovering and studying powerful natural actives that often outperformed long-used synthetics. Potent antioxidants, polyphenols, peptides, stabilized vitamin C, plant stem-cells are some of our own beauty buzzwords. We have used natural alternatives to synthetic peptides, to synthetic retinol, to silicones. Our aim is to offer safe products based on ingredients with documented efficacy, delivering visible results without disturbing our skin balance, and offering a great product experience; this can only be achieved by bringing together nature with research and science. At Korres we take pride in having an all-women team of scientists running our Formulation Lab. Women creating products for all women around the world. I feel that the beauty industry is filled with female intelligence, talent, skills and valuable knowledge that is driving innovation and advancement. We independently selected these deals and products because we love them, and we think you might like them at these prices. E! has affiliate relationships, so we may get a commission if you purchase something through our links. Items are sold by the retailer, not E!. It's a great time to be a makeup and skincare enthusiast. The Ulta 21 Days of Beauty Sale is underway, which means there will be new discounts and surprise steals to shop every single day. If you're looking for more great deals on some of these same products, Sephora's Oh Snap! Sale is happening. It's a win-win situation for us all. However, there's just one problem: these discounts are only here for one day. Nourish and soften your skin with the L'Occitane Shea Butter Hand Cream. It's an incredibly creamy palm that immediately moisturizes the hands. This hand cream has 36.2K+ Sephora "Loves." A shopper declared, "Best hand cream on the market! I am really tough on my hands . I love this stuff. Not only does it smell great but it heals my hands without being heavy or greasy..A little pricey but I've tried so many products and always come back to L'Occitane." Nourish and soften your skin with the L'Occitane Shea Butter Hand Cream. It's an incredibly creamy palm that immediately moisturizes the hands. This hand cream has 36.2K+ Sephora \"Loves.\" A shopper declared, \"Best hand cream on the market! I am really tough on my hands . I love this stuff. Not only does it smell great but it heals my hands without being heavy or greasy..A little pricey but I've tried so many products and always come back to L'Occitane.\"

Where To Buy Korres Products

21f597057a